

What role do parents play in Boy Scouting?

Scouting operates through volunteer leadership. Volunteer leaders are an example of Scouting's principle of service to others. Naturally, parents are the primary source of leadership in the Scouting Program. You volunteer not only to serve Scouting, but also to help your son and his friends, and to have the chance to be a positive influence on the youth in our community.

Although direct parental participation is not required, assistance from parents who are willing to serve on the committee, provide transportation to scouting activities or serve at a special function is greatly appreciated. Continued adult participation "behind the scenes" is the backbone of a successful Troop. More important, however, is the support of the son by the parents in his Scouting life.

As a member of Troop 295 you'll benefit from our experienced adult leadership. The Scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmasters work together to bring all their knowledge of camping and leading the boys to make good decisions. The leaders uphold the principles of scouting.
